Our Pathologists, Residents and guests were able to network and share their research as part of the first annual Pathology Research Day on June 2nd, 2016. The day was opened by Dr. Gabor Fischer (Department Head, Pathology and DSM Pathology Medical Director) and Dr. Peter Nickerson (Vice Dean of Research, Rady Faculty of Health Sciences).

The day included an oral presentation competition, a poster competition, and award presentations. The Department also hosted Dr. James Stone, Associate Professor, Harvard University. Dr. Stone presented his talk on Inflammation in Human Atherosclerosis as part of the Edge of Science Visiting Speaker series.

Congratulations to Residents Dr. Shawna Noy, recognized for best oral poster presentation and Dr. Maha Haddad, recognized for best poster presentation; as well as to Dr. Yali Xie, recipient of the Sam McMorris Memorial Award, which annually recognizes a Pathology Resident with the best research or clinical study.

The Department also recognized Dr. John Gartner with a plaque for his contributions to the department during his ten years as Department Head.