Course Description

Major themes of the course:

1. Areas of Study Within Criminology
1. Measuring Crime
2. Non-Sociological Explanations of Crime
3. Micro and Macro Sociological Explanations of Crime

The purpose of this course is to introduce the student to the study of crime as a social phenomenon. Although a number of issues will be covered in the course, the primary area to be examined is the major theoretical explanations that have been developed to explain criminal behaviour. Specific attention will be paid to the policy implications of the different theoretical explanations. Some common myths about the incidence of crime and the factors that lead to crime will also be explored. It is hoped that the student will develop some insight into the linkages between the causes of crime and the social control of crime.

Grade:

Your course grade will be determined by the following:

Term Test 1:	27.5%
Term Test 2:	27.5%
Term Test 3	20%
Group Writing	20%
Peer Evaluation	5%

Grading Scheme

PLEASE NOTE:

Senate Policy #1307 requires “a post-examination review of final grades in multi-sectioned courses that will ensure an equitable correspondence between grades and level of performance in all sections.” Accordingly, the final grade distribution in this course may be raised or lowered to achieve such equity and, your final grade may be changed.

Tests:

There will be three term tests. The tests will cover material from the required reading, lectures and information that comes out in class discussions. The tests will consist of multiple-choice and essay questions.

Students unable to write a term test on the scheduled date must contact the instructor prior to the test. Should a medical problem cause the student to miss a term test, it is the student's responsibility to provide a doctor's certificate and to contact the instructor to arrange a time to write a make-up test. Failure to write one of the term tests will result in a mark of zero for that part of the grade.

Group Writing Assignments

In the second week of the course, the class will be divided into groups of six. The group to which you are assigned will remain the same for the duration of the course. Approximately every third class, you will be given a question or series of questions, which your group will discuss and provide a written answer. The material to assist you in developing your answers will come from the required reading and the lectures. One person in the group will record the answer and submit it to the instructor at the end of class. The person responsible for recording the group's answer will rotate every week. It will also be the responsibility of the recording person to mark down which individuals are present for that week's assignment.

For each assignment all students in the group will be given the same mark. Your total mark for this component of the course is worth 20% of your final mark and will be based on the your best 6 marks out of the 7 assignments. If you miss a week, you will be given a zero for that week's assignment. There will be no make-ups for group writing assignments. All members of the group are expected to participate in the development of the best answer for the assignment.

Peer Evaluation:

In the last week of class you will be asked to assess the performance of the other members of your group. This assessment will be used in determining each individual student's contribution to the group writing assignments.

Academic Integrity:

Students should acquaint themselves with the University policy on "Plagiarism and Cheating" and "Examinations: Personations" found in the University Undergraduate Calendar.

Books:

The following book is required for the course.

R. Linden Criminology: A Canadian Perspective, 4th Edition

In addition, there are readings on reserve at the Elizabeth Dafoe library. This material is marked with an asterisk.

Reading Assignments

Section One: In this section the student will be introduced to the history of law in society, the major elements of criminal law, the sub disciplines within the general field of criminology, the problems associated with measuring the incidence of crime and the patterns associated with conventional crime.

1. Introduction: Linden chs. 1, 2
September 9: Group Writing
2. Measuring Crime: Linden chs. 3, 4
September 18: Group Writing
3. Conventional Crime: Linden ch. 13
September 30: Group Writing

TEST 1 (Tentative date: Thursday, October 2)

Section Two: In this section we will examine a number of different explanations for the causes of crime. These explanations will include early theories of crime that continue to have an impact on criminal justice practices, biological explanations, psychiatric and psychological explanations, and sociological explanations. We will also look at the recent theoretical and empirical work that has been done in the area of women and crime. Reflecting the literature in this area, both women as offenders and as victims will be covered.

4. Non-sociological Explanations of Crime: Linden chs. 6, 7, 8
October 14: Group Writing
5. Sociological Explanations: Linden chs. 9, pp. 348-349, ch. 12
October 23: Group Writing
6. Women and Crime: Linden ch. 5

TEST 2 (Tentative date: Thursday October 30)
--

Section Three: The final section of the course will examine two of the more recent theoretical positions within criminology. The first is the interactionist perspective, which attempts to understand criminal and deviant behavior in the context of the labels that individuals receive from their behaviour. Conflict theories share the view that in order to understand crime it is important to first understand the role of power in society.

7. Interactionist Perspective: Linden, pp. 333-348, 350-356
* Braithwaite, J. "Crime, Shame and Reintegration"
*Williams and McShane "Labeling Theory"
