Course Summary

This course will look at some of the key approaches, theoretical perspectives, trends, and issues within urban sociology. It begins with an exploration of the development and current contours of urban sociology, considering both its roots and recent theoretical approaches and concerns. Recognizing that cities are 'sites of complex global/local interconnections producing a multiplicity of social, cultural, political, economic spaces and forms' (Bridge and Watson, 2000, p. 1), the course will consider themes such as: the relationship between processes of globalization and contemporary configurations of cities; changing urban economies and the increasing significance of consumption; the reproduction and re/configuration of various inequalities in urban space; urban politics; as well as inquiries into and perspectives on urban culture(s), urban experience, and the constitution of urban meaning. In doing so, the course will touch on a wide range of urban processes such as ghettoization and gentrification, popular culture and representations of the city, as well as the politics of postering and public space, for example. The course will be organized around a combination of lectures, assigned readings, films, and discussions.

Course Objectives

- To introduce students to key approaches and theoretical perspectives in urban sociology, and provide students with analytical tools for understanding contemporary urban processes
- To develop an understanding of the interconnections between cities and processes of globalization, foregrounding the significance of comprehending the specificity of cities in their broader global context
- To familiarize students with various perspectives on the uneven development of urban economies, and to consider recent changes in such urban economies, including the rise to prominence of the cultural economy in various cities
- To offer students ways to understand and critically analyze contemporary forms of inequality and social organization in urban space
- To look at the shifting nature of urban politics
- To develop an understanding of various approaches to, and perspectives on urban culture(s), including recent emphasis on the generation of urban meaning

Assessment

Short Essay (Due Friday, October 13)

- Students are required to write a short essay of 1500 words. The essay topic for this piece of written work will be chosen by the student from a list of several possible essay questions, which will be distributed in class near the beginning of the term.

Mid-term Test (Monday, October 30)

- A test of 50 minutes will be held in-class. Students will be presented with a list of possible questions, and asked to choose a fixed number of questions and answer these in mini-essay format. Questions will cover material presented in lectures, readings, films, and class exercises. Study questions will be provided at least one week prior to the test. For this class there will be no exam held during the examination periods. Students should note that the instructor will not reschedule this test for any reason other than medical.

Term Essay (Due Wednesday, December 6)

- Students are required to write an essay of 3000 words. The essay topic will be chosen by the student from a list of possible essay questions, which will be distributed in class, OR the student can choose to write on a topic of his or her choice, subject to approval by the instructor. Students are responsible for contacting the instructor to obtain approval of such independently selected essay topics PRIOR to writing the essay.

Participation

- Participation marks will be based on student submissions to informal, unannounced in-class exercises. There will be at least three of these exercises throughout the term. Each student's mark will be the average of the best two assignments he or she has participated in. Assignments will usually be carried out collaboratively in small groups, with the group submitting one finished product and all members of the group receiving the same grade for that assignment. Students may be asked to hand in questions following a film, or analyze one of the course readings, or apply their sociological knowledge to a question given by the instructor.

Note: Students are instructed to always keep a personal copy of any submitted work in the case that they are required to submit another copy.

Late Submissions and Missed Tests

Late papers will be penalized 5% per day late (including weekends). Medical documentation will normally be required to waive this penalty. However, if you know before the due date that a paper will be late you should contact me immediately. Extensions may be granted under extenuating circumstances, entirely at the instructor's discretion, ONLY if the student contacts the instructor PRIOR to the deadline.

Missing the mid-term test is a serious problem and is likely to result in a grade of 0. Only documented reasons will be accepted for missing the test. If you miss the test for health-related or emergency reasons, you should a) provide advance notice, if possible, by phoning or emailing the instructor, then b) directly contact the instructor as soon as possible to arrange a makeup test. Note that it is the student's responsibility for initiating a makeup test. Ordinarily, arrangements must be made within one week of the missed test; requests made later than one week will normally be denied. Under no circumstances will a makeup test be offered more than two weeks after the scheduled test.

Missed Films

If you miss a film during a lecture you will need to view it at an alternative time. Making this arrangement is a student responsibility. To view a missed film, you will need a form that is available from 123 Fletcher Argue and which will require the instructor's signature. It is your job to bring the form to the instructor for signing during office hours or by appointment.

Academic Integrity

Academic dishonesty is a serious offence. Students should acquaint themselves with the University's policy on 'Plagiarism and Cheating' (Section 7.1) and 'Examinations: Personations' (Section 4.2.8) found in the University of Manitoba Undergraduate Calendar. Penalties for academic dishonesty are severe and range from failing the course to expulsion from the University. Guidelines for properly referencing your papers will be distributed in class.

Note: The Faculty of Arts reserves the right to submit student work that is suspected of being plagiarized to Internet sites designed to detect plagiarism.

Religious Holidays

The University of Manitoba acknowledges the right of all students to observe recognized holy days of their faith. You will need to inform the instructor in writing of your intended absence(s) at least three weeks in advance, particularly if such absence(s) coincide with the set mid-term test date.

Special Learning Needs

Students with special learning needs (who, for legitimate reasons, require extra time to write a test, or who require aids or other supports) should introduce themselves to the instructor during the first week of the course in order to organize suitable accommodation and assessment arrangements.

Disruptions

Disruptions due to excessive talking or early departures from the classroom are especially distracting to large classes. Please be considerate and respectful to the needs and rights of others in the class. Students should be aware that persistent disruption may result in disbarment from the course. Any student who has a legitimate reason for leaving class early should inform the instructor at the beginning of class.

Voluntary Withdrawal

Last day for voluntary withdrawal from the course without academic penalty is November 15, 2006.

Student and Instructor Responsibility

My responsibility as your instructor begins with the University's ROASS Policy and extends to creating a safe, cooperative and stimulating learning environment for students. As your instructor, I have selected texts and organized classroom time to meet the objectives of this course. Lectures are designed to help you understand and extend the concepts and ideas discussed in your texts and in the films. I comply fully with all University of Manitoba policies regarding teaching.

Student responsibilities include:

- Students are responsible for their own learning. You are expected to do readings in advance of class and are required to come prepared. You will often need to independently cover material in the textbooks (since not everything in the textbook will be directly addressed in class). Tests will draw on assigned readings as well as the lectures.
- If you are unclear about material or have academic concerns or questions, it is your responsibility to ask for help. I will be pleased to provide help during my office hours or by appointment. Students are warmly invited to drop by during office hours or to arrange an appointment to discuss any issues, concerns, or questions related to the course. Students are also responsible to track their own progress in the course, and to take action if you discover you are failing tests or papers.
- Students are responsible for complying with the policies on grades and tests, including policies on missed tests. You will find all course policies listed in this syllabus – please review it regularly. If you misplace this syllabus or a term schedule, you can download a copy from the course website.
- Students are asked to contribute to the creation and maintenance of a collegial learning environment; one in which all can develop as individuals and scholars, and in which the free and respectful exchange of ideas occurs. In order to achieve this, students are especially asked to be considerate and respectful of the needs and rights of other students in the class. Whispering and talking is especially inappropriate, since it bothers other students. Students who talk in class will be asked to leave the classroom. Other disruptions include late arrivals, early departures, mobile phone use, and other behaviour deemed inappropriate by the instructor or other students. Students should be aware that persistent disruption may result in disbarment from the course. Any student who has a legitimate reason for leaving class early should inform the instructor at the beginning of class and sit in a seat near the door to minimize disruption.
