Course Objectives:

This course is intended to provide an introduction to the field of Criminology. The first section of the course involves learning about the origins and background of the field; examining sources of law in society, defining ‘crime’ and ‘criminals’, describing sources of information about crime, and examining the individual and social variables that are related to criminal behaviour. The second section, which constitutes the bulk of the material to be covered, includes a critical introduction to the major theories that have been developed in an attempt to explain crime. Students will also develop an understanding of the ‘real life’ policy implications that attach to particular criminological theories and orientations. The third section will involve discussion of specific patterns and types of crime in Canada. At all stages of the course, students will be encouraged to take an active role through class participation and small-group discussion.

Required Text:

Linden, Rick (2009). Criminology: A Canadian Perspective. (6th edition) Toronto: Nelson Canada Ltd.
Note: While the majority of the assigned readings will be from the text, additional articles may be assigned from time to time.

Grades will be determined on the basis of three term tests, group assignments, and peer evaluation:

Test #2	27.5%	(Wednesday, May 20 th)
Test #3	20%	(Wednesday, May 27 th)

Attendance:

Students are expected to attend all classes. In the case of a missed test, exam, or assignment due date, a medical certificate must be provided. Note that in such a case, it is the student's responsibility to contact the instructor as soon as possible. There will be no exceptions to the above policy.

Class Conduct:

Disruptions such as talking, late arrivals or early departures are especially distracting to the instructor and to other students. Please be considerate of the needs and rights of others. Active cell phones, pagers, PDAs, etc. are not welcome. Laptop computers may only be used to facilitate note-taking, and at the instructor's sole discretion.

Academic Integrity:

Students are advised to acquaint themselves with the University of Manitoba policies on academic dishonesty, including personation at exams (section 4.2.8) and plagiarism and cheating (section 7.1) in the 2008-2009 Undergraduate Calendar.

Voluntary Withdrawal:

Students should be familiar with the rules and procedures for voluntary withdrawal. The final date for withdrawal without academic penalty is May 21, 2009.

Course Schedule

This schedule (other than term test dates) is approximate and may be adjusted as the course progresses. Group assignments will be integrated with the lecture material where appropriate. Group Writing Assignments

For the purpose of these assignments, the class will be divided into working groups which will remain the same for the entire course. At different times during the course, you will be given a question or set of questions for discussion and for which your group must submit a written response. The material you require to answer these questions is found in both the readings and the lectures. One of the group members (ideally a different one each time) is responsible for writing down and submitting the answers to the instructor at the end of class. All group members will receive the same mark for each assignment. If you miss a week, a grade of zero will be given for that week's assignment. All members of the group are expected to participate in the development of the answer for the assignment.

Please Note:

University of Manitoba Senate Policy #1307 requires “a post-examination review of final grades in multisectioned courses that will ensure an equitable correspondence between grades and level of performance in all sections.” Accordingly, the final grade distribution in this course may be raised or lowered to achieve this equity and, therefore, your final grade may be changed.
